Do young people today make good use of their free time?

These days, having a good amount of free time is a huge privilege. Young people are lucky enough to have time for hobbies, but do everyone spend their leisure time wisely, as well as properly?

I strongly believe that despite the development of social networks, modern adolescents lean forward to self-development rather than wasting their crucial time.

For instance, I have met enormous amount of teenagers who preferred to read books or fiction than scrolling internet. As it is from my personal experience, I should say that me and my surroundings do not always have a time of leisure activities.

Aside: culture or running for productivity made us and by us. I mean, young society stressful about spending our free time with zero significance. This leads us to believe that, young people more likely to do self-educational activities than causing themselves drawing in shame or sense of unproductivity.

My second argument, as I mentioned earlier, activities that have been making by teens during their holidays or after school are filled with the stress education, watching documentary shows, discussing topics of matter, even playing video games are the part of person's evolving which seems to be a good use of time, is it?

To conclude everything been said I do assume that young generation make good use of free time but what we need to remember is that every coin has to sides spending time wisely depends on parents choice. Young people's good choice of spending time will help them to reach the high results in the future in every field whatsoever.

Free time is golden means to learn new things and earn some experience. As Englishman said: "The golden opportunity but actually we have found problem about being people. Many of them spend their time to playing a videogame or as social media. If you spend your free time with this things please don't watch. We like to make new things. Stop thinking old memories. It's only your chance of spending time as a family.

All is saying you can add a new hobby for your life so that your life would be so interesting. You can try then connect it with benefit and work for start and don't delay in your mind.

Each young responsible to chose any good thing own life. If people spend time to family and it's the best pleasure. It's not to be on opposite side. But if we have good experience and having a like of social network. I advice you to spend then something yourself about your place in the world.

In conclusion, most things have place in the world but they don't understand it themselves. So my tips today, wake up. We are all think like this. It's so the thing.
